

Editorial

We are pleased to release the last issue of this volume of the International Journal of Information Studies with the following pieces of works.

In the opening paper on “Use of E- Resources by Researchers in Selected Institutions: A Regression Analysis Based Study” the author Senthur Velmurugan viewed that the scholarly network is gradually exchanging over from utilizing print assets to e-assets due to the E-resources importance. The author has surveyed the utilization of eassets by researchers and the personnel of those foundations of southern India. Ultimately the authors have reinforced the utilization of e-assets in educational establishments through the creation of infrastructure.

In the second paper on “National Education Policy for Libraries from 1948 to 2020: An Analytical Study”, the author Sameer P. More explained how National Education Policy has shaped the library movement in India. The author has extensively studied the Commissions, policies, and objectives for the growth of the library movement in India after India’s independence.

The information collection has been processed, stored and preserved in the corporate storage to ensure the proper utilization. In the last paper on “Information Collections/Materials: An Overview”, the author Velmurugan stated that the rural, semi-rural, and urban area are not yet digitized the collections. Finally, he concluded that the digital libraries are less when we take modern era of the 21st century, and the technological developments available.

In the forthcoming volume, we will come out with more research.

Editors