

Editorial

We now bring the third issue of the International Journal of Information Studies which has the following papers.

In the first paper on “Setting Up Village Community Information Centres For Farmers” the authors Nilaranjan Barik and Puspanjali Jena have studied the information access pattern of the agricultural information users in the rural region by distributing questionnaire. They have presented elaborative description of their studies with enough data.

In the second paper on “BABRONE: A Comprehensive Database of Biotechnology and Bioinformatics Resources of North East India”, the authors Manas Sarkar and Probodh Borah have described the mechanism of compiling the biotechnology database in the northeast region of India. The database also has the GIS coordinates a special feature which will help to develop a good network.

Thi Thanh Thuy Do and Chuan Fu Chen in the last paper on “Digital resources sharing among the National Library of Vietnam with Asian countries” have discussed the information sharing practices in the Asian countries. This work focused on the necessity, feasibility and benefits, of developing and digital resources sharing among Vietnam library and Asian libraries,

We do hope that the published papers are interesting.
